CALLED TO PROTECT FOR YOUTH: Saturday, Feb. 13th—9am to 12pm. Pavilion. This is a Diocese of Austin program for all teens are encouraged to attend. What is the program about? The statistics are staggering. Before the age of 18, one in four girls and one in eight boys will be sexually abused. And starting at about the fifth grade, kids can be especially vulnerable. That's when they begin spending more time away from their parents, their curiosity about sexual development increases, and they start testing limits and taking risks. Called to Protect™ for Youth is a comprehensive program specifically designed to teach middle- and high-school youth self-protection skills within the teachings of the Catholic Church. The program uses a three-part DVD series and guided group discussions and activities to teach young people how to recognize their personal boundaries, how to respond if someone tries to violate their boundaries, and what to do if someone is sexually abusing them or someone they know.
